PERKINS+WILL: A HISTORY OF EDUCATION

WE BEGAN MORE THAN SEVENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO WITH A SCHOOL SO SPECIAL, IT CHANGED THE WAY EDUCATIONAL FACILITIES WERE DESIGNED.

We have helped shape the way the world educates its children. We began more than seventy-five years ago with a school so special, it changed the way educational facilities were designed. Crow Island School represented an evolution in the way we educate our children, and established our reputation as an innovative and sensitive architect of learning spaces. Since then, education has been at the heart of our practice. Today, our practice is evolving and setting new paradigms while continuing to uphold the fundamental principles of designing for students, from the inside-out.

Our team includes many of the most experienced and creative education architects and planners in the world, making us a preeminent authority on the planning and design of schools. In each project, we not only ask ourselves what we are creating, but why we are creating it.

We collaborate with students, parents, and administrators to craft dynamic and technologically-advanced learning environments that inspire curiosity, encourage free play, and foster learning through a shared sense of community. Our dedication to understanding each community's needs results in a custom educational environment designed to support ever-changing educational contexts and facilitate the highest quality education available to our children.

Designing for the future generations, we hold ourselves socially accountable through our commitment to sustainability. With more than 1,000 LEED accredited professionals firm-wide and more than 20 LEED certified schools, we are leaders in environmentally conscious K-12 architecture.
